IN INNET!, 14: BROOKLYN, 13. We a the Brooklyns were vanquished at Washington Park yesterday afternoon, which was naturally somewhat of a disappointment to the loval cranks, the battle with the Cincinparts was so replete with interesting incidentawas win plenty to talk about. There was led with the fleating and a shifting of pitchers by both managers until in all six had been used in the box. Victory did not belong to either team until the last Brooklynite was put out, and at that it was the closest Assistant Umpire Latham that retired more team and made it impossible for ther a rest of three months, Pitcher Yeager get a chance to show what he could do in Brook ve a box. He was hit hard in streaks and gave way in the fifth to Hanlon's new two er I Donovan. The latter had remark ame speed, but was wild. After the slaughter the eighth inning, Donovan was succeeded by "Boaring Bill" Kennedy, who held the Reds in eneck in the last inning. "Pink" Hawley haster four innings in Cincinnati's box. Then eft-handed "Needles" Hahn was substituted. The youngster was wild and rattled at various stages, and in the ninth he was up in the air. Phillips went in to save the day, which he sucmedel in doing. It took nearly three hours to play the game, and towards the close the Reds purposely delayed matters with the idea that darkness would put an end to the struggle. The way the Bracklyns opened on "Pink"

Hawley made the granks look for a walk over. Four runs were scored on Keeler's three bagger. Kelley's base on balls, Daly's single and a four bagger by Dahlen. Again in the second another run was made on two bases on balls, followed by Reeler's fumble. Yeager had got away misely with the Visitors in these innings, but in the third his fumbles began. Paitz opened with a home run, after which Hawley. McBride and Coreoran singled in rapid succes-A base on balls to Smith, a scratch by Beekler and an out totalled up four runs before the side was out. Steinfeldt hit for three bases in the fourth, and tied the score on Peitz's Hawley's finish came in the last half when the Brooklyns took the lead with two runs on hits by Jones and Keeler, two infield outs, and a hard single to centre by An-Venger gave four balls to Corcoran in the fifth, and the latter ran in on Smith's corking triple to right. Then Yeager went out of the game and Donovan made his first bow to the Brooklyn cranks. The first ball he deliver-ed went three feet over McGuire's head and Smith tied the score. Donovan redeemed himself, though, by pitching well in the next two innings. The Brooklyns meanwhile almost exploded Hahn in the sixth with four runs that made their lead look safe. A base on balls, three singles, a force, and McGuire's rattling three-base hit to left centre did the business, the score then standing 11 to 7.

Two men were out in Cincinnati's eighth. with McPhee on second base, when Peitz put up a foul back of first base. The ball could have been caught by Daly with ease, but Anderson backed out and called for it. The result was that the ball fell to the ground a foot Anderson's reach. Then Peitz singled and McPhee took third. That seemed to rattle toxan, who gave four balls to Hahn. In iffy McBride planked a base hit over third and sent in two runs. Dahlen fumbled Corcoran's grounder and Smith's short hit again filled the bags. Beckley, who had been twice retired strikes by Donovan, then walloped the ball to left for two bags, and sent three hine runs home. Jake quickly scored the seventh run on Selbach's hot liner past Casey. McPhee got four balls, and the bases were filled for the third time on Dahlen's juggle of Steinfeldt's roller. But the agony was over when Peltz popped a fly for Anderson. which was accepted.

Hahn gave three bases on balls in the last half and one of them was turned into a run when McPhee fumbled Jones's drive. Two runs were needed to tie when took its last turn and after Hahn, who was away up, had sent Kelly and Daly to bases and balls, he was yanked out and hig Phillips got in. Anderson's long line was well taken by Selbach, and Dahlen hit to Corporan, Daly was forced, but McPhee. in trying for a double play, threw the ball so ar over Beckley's hend that Kelly scored and Dahlen landed in second. Casey had the crowd on edge when he bunted slowly toward, Beckley and rushed to first like wild fire. Jake had to hust e to make the pick up and also had to d the ball to Phillips on the bag. Casey slitter the base and those on the bleaching boards believing that he was safe set up a Dahlen meanwhile had crossed the plate with what looked like the tying run. But Assisting Umpire Latham decided that Casey was out and that settled it. The score:

Mahor Wins With McMeckin, Sanders and Blucaway at Savatoga.

SARATOGA, Aug. 9. - This was Jockey Maher's day, and as he piloted all his mounts to victory his followers had plenty of money after the races. Maher's first mount was McMeekin, in the second race. The latter opened a 6 to 5 favorite, but receded to 11 to 5, and ruled equal favorite ceded to 11 to 5, and ruled equal favorite with Prestidigitator, the latter being heavily played by his owner, "Pittsburg Phil." Prestidigitator went to the front in the stretch. McMeekin, after being shut out at the furlong pole, came on the outside and a few yards from the wire got the lead and won, all out, by a half-length with Prestidigitator second. Maher's mount In the third race was Sanders, who went to the post equal favorite with Swiftmas, at 11 to 10. While at the post Maher was caught in the barrier and lifted from his horse. He clung to the horse. He clung to the reins, and al-though the bridle and headstall came off. Maher, while lying on the ground, held on so that Sanders could not run away. Sanders beat Swiftmas by a length. Mahor's last mount was on Blueaway, in the fourth The latter won in a canter by six Jinks was touted as a good thing for the first race, but Kilt won by a neck from Belle of Troy. Burns, the rider of Jinks, was set down for three days for bad be havior at the post. Four ran in the steeple-chase, but only two finished. Burnap, the favorite, won in a gallop from Red Hackle.

Why the Atlantic League Disbanded. READING, Aug. 9.-Manager Patton of the Reading Baseball Club of the Atlantic League, was asked why the league had disbanded. He replied:

"We disbanded because we hadn't clubs enough to run the league. Kansas City bought five of the best players of the Wilkesbarre team, and the latter collapsed. We knew no new club could take its place. Reading then dropped out, Richmond followed, and so on. My judgment is that our league was not properly managed. Small state leagues can be made successful if the managing officers give their full attention to them. Of the Atlantic League, Reading was the best city for receipts. Richmond was next. Newark came third—owing to Sunday ball-and I think Scranton was about last The general business of the league, on the whole, was poor. There is no hope of a re-organization. It is dead, for this season at least, and it is too early to talk about next year's work. I think we are all losers

Trouble in the New England League BOSTON, Aug. 9.-The trouble in the New England League which has been brewing for some time culminated yesterday in the withdrawal of the Brocton team and the dropping of the Pawtuckets. The retirement of the Brocton team was due to poor sup-port, and the expulsion of the Pawtucket Club was the result of the failure to pay a $50 guarantee to the Manchester team yesterday. The league will continue with four clubs, namely: Portland, Manchester, Taun-ton, and Newport. A new schedule, end-ing with Labor Day, will be drawn up.

To Replace the Atlantic League, An effort is being made to organize a Pennsylvania state base-ball league to take the place of the defunct Atlantic League. The prime mover is William Sharsig, the manager of the Allestown Club. He attributes the downfall of the Atlantic League to the fact that the clubs were too widely separated in the race. His friend is to organize a league among the prin-cipal towns of Pennsylvania Manager cipal towns of Fennsylvania Manager Sharsig has found support in Easton, but the only difficulty encountered is that the town has no suitable grounds. The man-agers of the clubs in Lancaster, Reading, Wilkesbarre, and Allentown favor the Findley 5. Douglas Hurt in a Driving Accident. Findlay S. Douglas, the amateur cham-The championship committee of the Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U. held pion at golf until defeated by Herbert M. Harriman, was so badly hurt in a driving accident yesterday that it is feared he will have to give up the game for at least a year. Douglas was being conveyed in a pair-horse carriage from the Fairfield County Golf Club in Greenwich to the railroad station, when, as the horses were going at a rapid pace on a down-hill road, one of the front wheels collapsed, and caused an upset, in which both Douglas and the driver were quite badly injured. Douglas was burt in the left side, and his left arm and shoulder were cut and bruised. He was taken to a friend's house at Greenwich, and a surgeon sewed up bis arm. The fact that the hurt is on the left arm makes the injury worse, as this is the arm of which most use is made in playing. Douglas is still at Greenwich.

Doughas had been regarded as a sure starter in the open championship, to be held at the Baitimore Country Club in September, but the accident precludes any such step on his part. In his absence Herbert M. Harriman will, no doubt, lead the field as far as the amateur element goes, as Herbert C. Leeds did last year in this event at Myopia. Douglas, since his unexpected defeat at Onwentsia by Harriman, has been playing very strong and consistent golf. In the team match at Fairfield on Saturday with the Staten Island Cricket and Baseball Club team, Douglas led the home men and defeated Louis Livingston, jr., by 7 up and making the fine medal score of $2. But for the accident, Douglas would have taken a very prominent part in the open tournaments of the autumn. With Douglas out of the running, Harriman should not be beaten this fall, for he holds, on his Onwentsia form, the other candidates quite safe. The three most danfield as far as the amateur element goes candidates quite safe. The three most dan gerous rivals to Harriman just now are Waiter J. Travis, Reginald Brooks, and Waiter J. Travis, Reginald Brooks, and Quincy A. Shaw.

There is a rumor that Willie Anderson intends to give up the professional's berth at Baltusrol, which, if true, will compel some changes in the different matches he has under way. Another change of interest is the engagement of Thomas Phelan, well known to the frequenters of the old St Andrew's course as the steward at the Fairfield County Golf Club.

The new nine-hole course of the Knickerbocker Field Club of Flatbush will have a length of about 2,000 yards. James Laing

Miss J. Anna Carpenter, the young West-ern player of the Westward Ho Golf Club, Chicago, who is regarded as a possible winner of the women's championship, is winner of the women's championship, is visiting at Louisville and Cincinnati this week. She has been out on the Cincinnati Country Club links, and making very low scores in matches with Mrs. R. I. Carter and Miss Anne Harrison.

A new club-house, to cost $12,000, is in course of construction by the Kebo Valley Country Club at Bar Harbor, to replace the one destroyed by fire on July 1. Throughout August the schedule calls for semi-weekly matches for the women and men, and on September 2 the finals will be played for the governors' cups. Arden M. Robbins and Nathaniel C. Reynal are regarded as the two strongest players at Bar Harbor this summer.

With the approach of the open champion ship there is in some quarters an agitation over the question as to whether the clubs should pay the expenses to and from the event of their professionals. The Western clubs, as a rule, pay the expenses of their representatives, but the custom is not a uniform one in the East. The theory on which the clubs go in paying for the trip is which the clubs go in paying for the trip is that to participate in the open event keeps their "pro's" up to date, for they see how others are playing, and find out the latest ideas about the game. Consequently, the trip has an educational side which makes the professional of increased value to his club. Should a prize be won, the club profits by the prestige of employing a good man. The men who have a chance find no trouble in getting their expenses paid, but the men who would profit most from the lessons of the open championship are the beginners employed by the smaller clubs, and as a rule they have to pay their own way. During the open championship the professionals intend to present a petition to the executive committee of the U.S. G. A. to ask that next year one of the acknowledged championship links be selected for the scene of next year's open championship. The Baltimore course is far from being a fair test of golf but for this year. to ask that next year one of the acknowledged championship links be selected for the scene of next year's open champtonship. The Baltimore course is far from beling a fair test of golf, but for this year
